

AnuRupa Matrimony is a private matchmaking platform for Anupama Reddy. It holds your profile book, lets you search it for a named client, and share a shortlist with that client over WhatsApp — then tells you what they opened and which profiles they liked.

The admin side is yours and is password protected. The client side is what families see: a share link you send them, or the public browse page. Clients never see your internal notes, finances or tags.

1 How it works

A typical day with the platform is five steps:

- 1 Add profiles as families come to you, using the intake form.
- 2 Search the book on behalf of a client, filtering by caste, age, height and finances.
- 3 Tick the matches and choose how much to reveal — photos only, basic or all details.
- 4 Send one link on WhatsApp. The client opens it on their phone, no login needed.
- 5 Watch what comes back — which links were opened and which profiles were hearted.

Three kinds of people use it, and each sees a different slice:

WHO	WHAT THEY DO	WHAT THEY SEE
You (admin)	Sign in, add and edit profiles, search, share, follow up.	Everything.
A family with a link	Open the WhatsApp link, browse the shortlist, heart the ones they like.	Only the profiles you chose, at the level you chose.
A walk-in	Open the public browse page, give name and mobile, filter and heart.	Public profiles, basic details only.

Everyone becomes one client record, matched by phone number. A family that hearts a profile is asked for a name and mobile once; a walk-in gives it before anything is shown. Someone who browses today and gets a WhatsApp link next week is one client with one history.

2 Signing in & the home screen

Go to /admin and enter the admin password. The session lasts 12 hours. You land on four sections — New Profile, Search, All Profiles and Dashboard — with Clients and Share Links underneath. Everything starts from here.

3 Adding a profile

The form follows your paper intake sheet, tab by tab: Personal (name, birth details, rasi, nakshatram, gotram, caste, height, city), Education, Professional (job, company, salary, finances), Family, Contact, Requirements and Internal (tag, net worth, private notes). Only Name is mandatory — create a profile from a phone call and fill in the rest when the family sends details.

4 Searching for a client

Search always runs on behalf of someone — that is what makes the tracking work. Pick an existing client or add a new one with a name and phone number.

Search

Searches are tracked per client, so we know who has seen what.

Who are we searching for?

Pick an existing client, or add the person you are shortlisting for.

 Start search

Choose the client first.

Then filter: name, looking for, caste, tag, and more-than / less-than ranges for age, height and finances. Results show just what you need to judge a match at a glance — name, date of birth and age, height, caste, requirements — with View / edit all details for the full record.

Already-shared profiles go grey and are badged Already shared, so you never send the same profile to a client twice. Profiles they hearted are badged Liked.

5 Sharing a shortlist

Tick the profiles you want (or Select all) and press Share. One link covers everything selected, so the family gets a single WhatsApp message. Choose how much they see:

LEVEL	WHAT THE CLIENT SEES
Photos only	Name and the photo gallery. Nothing else.
Basic details	Name (no surname), birth details, height, job, business, native place, photos.
All details	Everything above plus surname, caste, education, family, horoscope, requirements and contact.

Set how many days the link stays alive, add an optional label, and generate. You get a Copy link button and a Share on WhatsApp button that opens WhatsApp with the message already written and addressed to the client by name.

Finances, marital status and the tag are never shared — not even on "All details". They stay on your side only.

6 What the client sees

From a WhatsApp link: the profiles you chose, at the level you chose, with a heart on each. No login, no app. The first heart asks for their name and mobile — links get forwarded within families, so this records who actually liked it. After that, hearts are one tap.

From the public browse page: they must give a name and phone number before anything is shown. Then they can filter and heart profiles just like a shared link, and every search is recorded against them.
